ANOTHER TRAGEDY

LIKE LAMBERT GIRL'S

Beatrice Walter Dead, Man She Was With Says She Committed Suicide

Providence, R. I., June 1.—Beatrice Walter, aged 19, was found dead early today, a bullet wound in her breast, and James O'Brien, with whom she had been walking early in the evening, is under arrest.

Circumstances mysteriously like those of the Lambert tragedy at Lake Forest, Ill., surround the death of the Walter girl, for O'Brien returning to her father's home today, reported that she had shot herself.

He declared he left her for a moment and on his return found her dying by her own hand, a bullet lodged in her breast.

When William P. Walter, father of the girl, and the police reached the spot where O'Brien claimed Beatrice died, her body lay in the wheel ruts of a lonely road, a quarter of a mile from her home.

No weapon was found and no reason for suicide has yet been given. O'Brien was immediately placed under arrest and held pending an investigation.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

That Frank S. Ward has no legal capacity to sue the city of Salem and to enjoin the city from purchasing a paving plant is the principal contention set forth in a demurrer filed yesterday in the circuit court in the case of Frank S. Ward against the city of Salem, the mayor, city recorder and city treasurer. The plaintiff sought a temporary injunction restraining the city from purchasing a Koehring paving plant or a rock crusher on the grounds that the council had not followed the provisions of the charter in making the purchase. The demurrer filed in the circuit court by City Attorney Mary also says that the complaint does not state sufficient facts to constitute the cause for an action and does not authorize the issuance of an injunction. Since the above suit was brought charges that the paving trust or private citizens of the city were behind the move to block the municipal paving plant have brought but Mr. Ward maintains that he is in favor of the city owning its own paving plant but that the purchasing of this one was rushed through the council too hastily and that he feared that the city would be obliged to pay for a lot of paving unless the council proceeded cautiously.

A. F. Purdy today filed a suit in the circuit court against Harry Redfern to collect $140 alleged due for services rendered as a builder and carpenter at Newport.

Joseph Baumgartner has filed a suit in the circuit court against J. A. Cooper and Hazel Cooper to collect $1,972.53, alleged due on a note for $2,260 given in 1912. The note is secured by a mortgage on lot four Marion Gardens. The plaintiff asks for a judgment for the unpaid balance and costs and a foreclosure of the mortgage.

A suit to cancel a trade for an auto was filed in the circuit court today by Henry Meister against Fred J. Miller. The plaintiff alleges that he traded an auto worth $1,000 to Miller for $300 in cash and a note on T. N. Kennedy for $700. Meister states that Miller said the note was secured by a mortgage on property worth $1,400 but this is denied in the complaint which alleges that the property is incumbered by prior claims and that the note is worth no more than $300. The plaintiff alleges that the auto has been damaged by deterioration and use in the sum of $450 and asks that the trade be cancelled and that he be awarded damages of $430.

Deputy Sheriff Carter, of Kalama, Wash., arrived in Salem today to return Joseph S. Bertrand to that city to stand trial on a charge of rape.

Hans Popp, who resides near Wacconda, today swore out a complaint against Mary Tompkins, a neighbor, charging that she pointed a gun at him in a threatening manner. The controversy arose over some stock that were being pastured in the road.

An inventory and appraisement filed in probate court in the matter of the estate of Nane A. Chadwick shows that the estate consists of real property worth $5,000 and personal property to the value of $22,502.68. The appraisers were A. N. Bush, P. H. Raymond and B. B. Boise.

A marriage license was issued today by the county clerk to Emil Hug, a Mr. Angel farmer and Anner Westendorf, also of Mt. Angel.

E. C. Smith and Joseph E. Johnson, of Port Canby, are to engage in halibut fishing off the mouth of the Columbia and will make their headquarters in Astoria. They have purchased the gasoline schooner Enterprise from N. A. Jeldness.

LECTURER LIKES WEST

Has New Program for School Next Week—Will Again Give Away Beautiful Cakes

"The West is my favorite lecture field," says Mrs. Kate Brew Vaughn, the popular Better Foods Better Homes speaker who will conduct a school for housewives and cooks in the Armory next week. She has lectured throughout the south and the east and is making her third visit to the cities of the west. She feels that her schools here are her greatest triumphs, because western women are progressive and are deeply interested in her Better Foods Better Homes work. She says the very atmosphere of her schools here are different, because the women come to learn and not to be entertained or merely get something to eat.

In these days of unrest when women are, according to newspaper and magazine writers, running off after a lot of fads and follies and interesting themselves in the making of governments, rather than in making homes, in every art, except the culinary art, and in making a place for themselves in the business world, rather than in the home, it is refreshing to meet a woman with Mrs. Vaughn's old-fashioned ideas about making and caring for the home and with her absorbing interest in good wholesome homemaking and home training for boys and girls. This skilled cookery teacher has an entirely new program for her work in Salem this season. Special attention is given to the cost of foods and the subject of wholesome, nourishing and economical dishes for breakfast, luncheon and dinner are taken up in three successive cookery demonstrations. New kinds of pies, cakes, puddings, salads and desserts are to be prepared and served every day.

Mrs. Vaughn's idea of good cooking is not merely to make things taste good, utterly unimpaired of their digestibility and their nutritive value, but in all of her instructions to cooks, she tells what foods should eat, what is their function in the body and how they may be temptingly and wholesomely prepared and combined with other foods. All of these essentials are taken into consideration when she cooks and when she teaches cooking and recommends receipts to the women who attend her classes. One interesting feature of her work which she contends to repeat here will be the making and giving away of decorated cakes.
